

and Vasukota are all synonymous. Arishta, Ashva-shtnit and Katta-bhedaka are the names of PashSna-bheda (Coleus amboinicus). Ghantaka is known by the epithets of {Bhushakaj Vacha and ^r,Shuchaka, Sagandha, ChchhatrEdi and Chchhatrd are the names of Kusumbna (Safflower Carthamul tenctarius), and Pitashlla is known by the epithets of Sarasa and Veejaka (Indian Kino tree, Pentaptera tomentosa). Vajravrifcsha, Mahavriksha, Sudha, Gudf, and Sruk are the names of Snuhi (Uphorbia Neraifolia). Shala (Shoria Robusta) tree is known by the epithet of Yakshavriksha, while Anisha is called by the name of Tinisha (Indian Jarula tree—Dalbergia Oujeineisis). Upastha", and SarasS. are the other names of Fulasi (Holy basil). The second variety of Tulasi is called Sita (Ocimum album). Another species of Tulasi is called Arjunaka, Parni, Saugandha* parniki and Kutheruka (Assimiln Bajilicum). Nil[^], Nirgundi, Sugandhika, Sugandhaparini, Vasanti and Kulaja¹ are the names of Sindhuadra (Vitex trifoliuni), Peeta-* Kastham and Katakakshya are the names of Kaliyakam (Yellow Sandalwood); Khadira is called Gayatri (Acacia Catechu), while the white variety is called Kandara (Kadara according to others). Indivaram, Kuvalayani, Saugandhikam, Shatadalam, Kamalam and Avjam are the synonymes of Padma (Nelumbium speciosum), while the blue variety is called Nilotpalam tNymphaea Stellatr). Vajikarna and Ashvakama are the names of Sarja (Indian Salt tree—Suaeda robusta), while its another variety is known by the epithets of Urja and Ajakarna (Beng:—Jhanji Shal), Shclru and Vahuvara are the synonymes of Shleshmataka \Cordia myxa, narrow leaved Sepistun). Kulangani, and Mrigechchhd are th* synonymes of Alanibusha. Sunandaka, Kukud, Bhadram and Chatraki are the names of Chhatrd (Andropogon citratus) Kavari, Kumbhaka, Karila, Kamamana,

 Dhanakrit are the synonymes of Krishnarjaka.
 Prachi, Va-Nadi-Kranta and Yayasi are the names of Kaka-jsmg